The Consular Service.

Positions That Have Not Been Filled By President Harrison.

APPOINTMENTS LAID ASIDE.

About Fifty Offices That Will Not Be Vacant Until Death or Resignation Leave Them So—Men Who Have Served the Government for Twenty Years or More.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Of the large number of positions in the consular service that have not been filled by the present administration about fifty will remain with their present occupants. During the administration of President Cleveland about the number of consular officers who had been appointed under Republican rule were permitted to retain their positions.

President Harrison will not, of course, remove these persons and consequently a considerable number of applications filed at the state department have been politely laid aside until death or resignation causes a vacancy at any of the posts. Eleven have served, some at more than one place, for twenty years or over. These are George W. Roosevelt, of Pennsylvania, who was recently transferred to Brussels. Thomas Adamson, of Pennsylvania, who is now at Panama as consul general, but has been consul at Pernambuco, Honolulu, Melbourne and Rio de Janeiro. Charles P. Williams, of New York, at Rouen; R. B. Dinzey, of Pennsylvania, consular agent at St. Bartholomew; A. G. Studer, of Iowa, at Barmen, Germany; H. J. Sprague, of Massachusetts, at Gibraltar; Thomas N. Molloy, of New York, at St. Johns, N. F.; William T. Rice, of Massachusetts, at Leghorn; Enoch J. Smithers, of Delaware, at Osaka and Hiogo, Japan. Alexander Willard, of California, at Guaymas, Mexico, and Gerhard Gade, a native Norwegian, at Christiania, Norway.

The others who were appointed under Republican administrations and who have held positions in the consular service for periods ranging from six to nineteen years are Edward L. Baker, of Illinois, at Buenos Ayres; John H. Stewart, of Pennsylvania, at Antwerp; R. E. Ryder, of New York, at Copenhagen; Charles Bartlett, of Maine, at Guadeloupe; Frank H. Mason, of Ohio, at Frankfort; Edmund Johnson, of New Jersey, at Kehl; C. E. Jackson, of Wisconsin, at Antigua; E. R. Jones, of Wisconsin, at Cardiff; A. B. Wood, of New York, at Dundee; William H. Levitchell, of Louisiana, at Kingston; A. G. Webster, of Tasmania, at Hobart; William F. Grinnell, of New York, a brother-in-law of Vice President Morton's, at Manchester, England; T. T. Prentiss, of Vermont, at Port Louis Mauritius; E. S. Delisle, at St. Christopher, W. I.; G. W. Griffin, of Kentucky, at Sydney, N. S. W.; J. W. Taylor, of Minnesota, at Winnipeg; E. Babcock, at Patras, Greece; S. Goutier, of Pennsylvania, at Cape Haytie; W. C. Burchard, of New York, at Ruatan; A. M. Wood, of New York, at Castelamare, Italy; P. Carroll, of New York, at Palermo; W. P. Sutton, of Michigan, at Nuevo Laredo; D. Eckstein, of Ohio, at Amsterdam; D. C. Van Romondt, at St. Martin, W. I.; S. W. Dabney, of Massachusetts, at Fayal; R. O. Williams, of New York, at Havana; H. C. Marston, of Illinois, at Malaga; F. C. Gade, at Bergen, Norway; N. A. Eltwing, at Stockholm, Sweden; L. T. Adams, of New York, at Horgen; G. L. Catlin, of New Jersey, at Zurich, and E. H. Plumacher, of Tennessee, at Maracaibo.

Twelve consular clerks who hold life positions are not included among these. Horatio J. Sprague has been consul at Gibraltar since 1848, and is the oldest consul in the service. There is at least one office in the service for which no candidates have appeared. This is the consular agency at Bartholomew, W. I., which has been held since 1860 by R. B. Dinzey, of Pennsylvania. Fees and fees only, is Mr. Dinzey's compensation; but the record of the state department for years past, show that no fees have ever been received there. Mr. Dinzey is in business there, and holds the position for the social influence it gives him. A. G. Webster, consul at Hobart, Tasmania, receives less than $10 per year in fees and no salary.

The establishment of the consular clerkships was looked upon as a preliminary step towards a civil service system in the consular service. These clerks are twelve in number, and hold office during good behavior. They are appointed by the president, but he cannot remove any of them without the consent of the senate. The pay is but $1,200 and $1,000 per year, but the places are considerable because of the privileges connected with them.

GENERAL GEORGE FOSTER.

He Claims That He Has Never Had Any Luck Since Mrs. Surratt Was Hanged.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—A broken down old man, who had slept off a fit of intoxication in a prison cell, answered to the name of George Foster when he was called to the bar at the Harlem police court Saturday morning. He was charged with being a "common drunkard." At the examination it became known that the prisoner was Gen. George Foster, who was district attorney of Washington, at the time President Lincoln was assassinated.

Gen. Foster conducted the prosecution of Herold, Mrs. Surratt and Atzerodt, who were hanged for the crime. Foster says he never had a day's luck since Mrs. Surratt was hanged. Friday night he was arrested in Harry Hill's place, at One Hundred and Thirtieth street and Third avenue, so drunk he couldn't stand up. Saturday he was let go with a reprimand.

SOCIALIST MASS MEETING.

Speakers Discuss the Topic "Our Principles and Our Tactics."

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—A mass meeting was held Sunday afternoon at Vorwaerts Turner Hall, under the auspices of the Socialist Labor party. The topic was "Our principles and our tactics." Adelbert Hamilton, a local attorney, was chairman, and introduced J. F. Bushe, of New York, as first speaker. Mr. Bushe briefly outlined the fundamental principles of state Socialism. He declared that believers in Socialism were in no sense Anarchists or sympathizers with Anarchists, and that the delegates present at the convention were not there to pass resolutions regretting the hanging of Spies, Parson and the rest. He declared that Socialists were loyal to the government, and believed in centralization of the executive and distribution of the legislative powers.

L. Winman, the next speaker, said the party could not countenance any sort of a combine with any other party, as such action would injure Socialism without helping the laboring man a particle.

Tommy Morgan, the local Socialist leader, followed with one of his characteristic speeches. He said that by reason of the private ownership of land and products monopolies were easily created. These pools were so strong that they defied even the law. Four men control the meat market, eight own the hard coal and sixty families all the railroads.

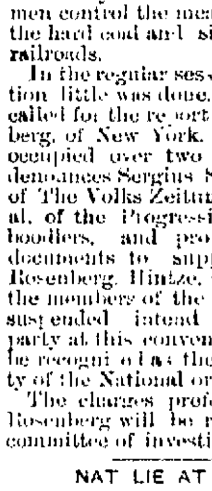
In the regular session of the convention little was done. Chairman Bushe called for the report of Secretary Rosenberg, of New York. The reading of it occupied over two hours. Rosenberg denounces Sergius S. Schevitch, editor of The Volks Zeitung and Lucian Sanial, of the Progressive Labor party, as boodlers, and produced papers and documents to support his assertion. Rosenberg, Hintze, Gercke and Sauter, the members of the executive who were suspended intend to appeal to the party at this convention and expect to be recognized as the executive authority of the National organization.

The charges preferred by Secretary Rosenberg will be refered to a special committee of investigation.

NATALIE AT BELGRADE.

The Ex-Queen Received by the People with Utmost Enthusiasm.

BELGRADE, Sept. 30.—Ex-Queen Natalie arrived here Sunday. Her presence was totally ignored by the government officials, but she was received most enthusiastically by the crowds that thronged the streets through which she passed. On private residences throughout the city flags were displayed in her honor. The official Gazette, in announcing that no official reception will be given Natalie, asserts that ex-King Milan has the sole right to regulate the relations between Natalie and her son.



NATALIE.

The reception was spontaneous, and the enthusiasm of the people was indescribable. It is estimated that there were 50,000 in the streets. After a brilliant triumphal progress to her residence the ex-queen was obliged to appear on the balcony to respond to the plaudits of the multitude.

In the evening the city was illuminated, and throngs of citizens were in the streets singing the nation's hymns.

The Russian minister and all the attaches of the Russian embassy visited the ex-queen, remaining half an hour. The palace gates were closed during the day and guarded by troops.

A Foolhardy Undertaking.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 30. Floating down the Niagara river from Grass island and landing on the head of Goat island is considered at all times a very hazardous undertaking, and of no practical use, yet it has been accomplished several times. This summer "Nocco" Walker and one Darry were carried over the Horseshoe Falls, when it was supposed they, too, were trying to reach the island, but those casualties did not prevent Anthony Walker, a well known river pilot, from attempting the trip yesterday afternoon. Taking an old scow he rowed over to Grass Island and amid much excitement made the trip successfully. Good luck more than good management landed him on the island.

Killed by a Landslide.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 30. A Finlander named Rosendahl and a companion, John Longigo, engaged on the construction of the Gatineau Valley railway, lost their lives Saturday evening through a landslide in a cutting near Ironsides. The cutting at this place is deep and precipitous. John Sandson, who was above watching the operations, noticed the bank about to give way and called to the men, ten of whom were working below. All escaped except the two above named. Rosendahl was about 36 years old. He had been in Canada only three months, and leaves a widow and four children destitute.

A Pauper Left Two Million Dollars.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Sept. 30.—John Brennan, an inmate of the almshouse, has been notified that his sister, Mrs. John Carson, had died in San Francisco and left him $2,000,000. Brennan and two sisters landed at Castle Garden from Dublin in 1845. The girls went to the coast and started a lunch counter in '49 days. Brennan has worked in the coal mines all his life until he broke a leg in 1884 and went to the county almshouse.

Floods in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 30.—The city of Celaya is almost entirely inundated. Many families have sought refuge in the former convent of St. Francis. Railroad traffic is impeded. Heavy storms are reported at Palenque and on the Guatemalan frontier.

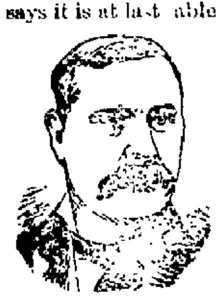
Startling Discoveries

Made in the Snell Murder Case at Chicago.

TASCOTT NOT THE MURDERER.

The Chicago Tribune Says That Three Men Committed the Crime—A Confession of One of the Principal Participants Who is Now Dead.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—The Tribune says it is at last able to throw new and positive light on the mystery of Millionaire Snell's murder. It has discovered that three men took part in the crime. One stood guard outside the house, two went in, cracked the safe in the basement, and together shot Mr. Snell. One of these two was James Gillan, a noted thief and ex-convict.



THE MURDERED MAN.

It has been ascertained that Gillan made a full confession of the crime to Father Sullivan, of St Jarlath's church, the night before his death, six months ago, at the county hospital. More important still, a statement made by Gillan the morning after the murder to an old and reputable lawyer, whose services he wished to retain in the event of his arrest, has been obtained in the lawyer's writing. A mass of collateral details, though not needed to verify the fact of Gillan's guilt, which is established by the confession and statement, has been collected with a view to the detection of his accomplices.

If the result of these discoveries does not show that the Tascott of the Snell case and Gillan were the same person, it will show that Tascott was merely a catspaw used by Gillan for the purchase of tools and the secretion and disposition of stolen property, and that others, hitherto as free from suspicion as Gillan, were the latter's partners in the murder.

Gillan, in his statement to his lawyer, describes the shooting of Millionaire Snell as follows:

"Just as I got the parlor door open I looked up, and there stood the old man at the head of the stairs. He saw me and swore at me. I lost no time in getting inside of the parlor, and was about to try to open the connecting doors when a shot was fired from the hall or stairway. This rattled me a little, and, not daring to make a noise by forcing the doors, I went back to the door I had come in by from the hall. When Snell saw me the second time at the parlor door he again began his loud talk, saying he had me in a hole and he would catch me and break every bone in my body. Just then my companion showed at the rear of the hall and head of the basement stairs. The old man had been trying to fire his revolver at me, but could not make it go off for some reason. He now turned to the man at the head of the stairs.

"I thought to take advantage of this diversion and step past Snell through the hall, but could not. At this time he succeeded in again firing his revolver, and toward me. I had not shown mine, but finding his working again, and fearing my life, I shot without sighting or taking other aim than by holding the pistol toward him. Almost at the same instant I saw his flash my companion fired, and it was evident Snell was badly wounded by one or both of us, for he staggered and in a short time fell dead in the hall."

The Tribune says: As to Tascott's part in the tragedy there are excellent reasons for believing that Gillan's statements exonerating him from direct complicity may be correct. It is known from Gillan's former associates that he had been in the habit of using Tascott, who was not under the suspicion of the police, as an agent between himself and the purchasers of his stolen goods. It is the opinion of those who knew Gillan best that he, being aware that Tascott had left the city about the time of the murder, put the papers from the Snell safe in Tascott's stove, which were found there sixteen days later. There were special reasons why suspicions once directed toward Tascott would take root, and they were unknown to Gillan. They related to the fact that Tascott was acquainted with the family.

In this connection it is said, on the authority of Tascott's brother, that Tascott on hearing while in Madison, Wis., that he was charged with the murder, came to Chicago on funds supplied by the brother to declare his innocence and stand trial. He consulted a Lasalle street attorney. The attorney investigated the circumstantial evidence which had been heralded as sufficient to convict him, and advised him to stand trial. Tascott learned, however, of the discovery of a lot of stolen property in his closet, which he had been secreting for Gillan. He learned that this property, consisting of fine guitars, mandolins and silverware, had been identified by various West Side residents, whose houses Gillan had pillaged. He realized that if he escaped on the charge of murder he would be convicted for receiving stolen goods if not for robbery. He determined to leave Chicago again, and did so.

Minister Washburn Back.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The steamship Labretagne arrived yesterday from Havre with 563 passengers. Among them was Hon. J. D. Washburn, the American minister to Switzerland.

A number of expert engineers, examined by the grand jury investigating the smoke nuisance at Chicago, gave it as their opinion that the generation of large quantities of smoke could be easily prevented.

SUFFERING AT SPRING VALLEY.

People Living a Month on Eighty-Four Cents' Worth of Food.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Henry D. Lloyd, of this city, who has just returned from a visit to Spring Valley, Ill., where he distributed among the destitute miners medicines furnished by a charitable New York lady; writes a long letter to The Tribune, in which he describes the wretched condition of the people there.

"Among other means of getting intelligent and unbiased information as to the exact state of things," he says, "I visited the Catholic school and the public school, in which together there are over 600 children, and talked with the teachers and many of the children. The sisters who teach in the Catholic school said that their children gave unmistakable evidence of not having sufficient food. They were paler than the year before and they could not study as well. Children would frequently fall asleep at their desks from weakness. But so sturdy was their pride and self-respect that it was almost impossible for their teachers to obtain from them any acknowledgment that they did not get enough to eat at home.

"Children who were unmistakably suffering for want of nourishment would even refuse food when offered them by their teacher, and, in some cases, the sister superior said, when food was taken by some such child, it was immediately rejected by the stomach, showing how far the exhaustion of hunger had gone. One of the teachers in the public school stated that on her way to the school in the morning she would sometimes meet as many as a dozen of her class out with baskets, going to beg. As they saw her the little things, ashamed, would try to hide from sight until she had passed. In both schools numbers of the children were insufficiently clothed, little boys and girls of the tenderest years having on only some light sack or jacket, with no underclothing. It was a cold, bleak day, but many were barefoot. How the people have lived at all is a mystery.

"There have been during the last four weeks, ending Sept. 25, five distributions by the relief committee all in goods, no money has been given out—and the extent of this charity has sufficiently indicated by the statement taken from the account of the committee that each family of seven, and others in proportion, had received for the entire period of four weeks, flour, meal, etc., to the value of $5.88, or eighty-four cents' worth for each person for the whole four weeks. The mayor of the city, the editor of The Spring Valley Gazette, the Congregational clergyman, Mr. Stringer, all the physicians of the place—every one, in fact, stated without qualification, that were it not for the relief from without, the people would have starved and would be starving. To check so scanty a stream of relief, eighty-four cents' worth of food for each person monthly, by talk about 'exaggeration,' seems to me nothing short of inhuman."

Mr. Lloyd declares that the death rate is high there, and that it will be greatly increase as the weather grows cold. He declares, of his own knowledge, that the sick and poor have been refused medicines and medical advice by the poor authorities there.

DEPLORE CAPTAIN JONES' DEATH.

Much Regret at Johnstown—Father Davin's Remains—Schools to Reopen

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 30.—The announcement of the death of Capt. W. R. Jones, of Braddock, caused much sorrow here. The people of the stricken city remember him with great kindness on account of his noble work in the first days of their great sorrow. A meeting of citizens of the devastated district has been called for to express their sorrow for his death, and sympathy for his bereaved family.

The remains of Father Davin, the priest who rendered such great service to the newspaper correspondents in the first days of the flood, have arrived here. The funeral will take place at 10 o'clock.

The public schools in Johnstown and Millville boroughs opened this morning. The two buildings that have been used as morgues have been cleaned up and put in repair for use.

While digging around in the debris yesterday, where the workmen left off on Saturday evening, some strangers came across the remains of a young girl, which had almost been uncovered.

ROUGH ON A POLYGAMIST.

Held in $5,000 Bail—His Second Wife Testifies Against Him.

SALT LAKE, Utah, Sept. 30.—Hans Jesperson was brought before United States Commissioner Hills, at Provo, Thursday, charged with polygamy, and held in $5,000 bail, and the second wife in $1,000. The latter related under oath how she was converted to Mormonism in Virginia and came to Utah last November, and gave the details of her marriage to Jesperson in the Mormon temple at Manti five months ago.

She told how she subsequently came to Salt Lake City, where she went through the endowment house where all polygamous marriages and other secret rites of the church are solemnized. She could not tell who performed the ceremony as, whoever it was stayed behind a curtain.

No marriage license was procured as the Tucker-Edmunds law provides. The case is important, owing to the fact that for several years past it has been next to impossible to secure a conviction in one of these cases. Had the plural wife not testified freely her husband would have escaped the five years' penalty which now stares him in the face.

Indignant Spiritualists.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 30.—Indiana Spiritualists in state convention have unanimously passed a very bitter resolution denouncing Postmaster General Wanamaker for denying postal privileges to the "Banner of Light" and other publications of the society.

The Central Wreck.

It is Not as Disastrous as First Reported,

ALTHOUGH IT IS BAD ENOUGH.

Four Persons Killed Outright and About a Dozen Severely Injured—Narrow Escape of President Ingalls, of the Big Four Railroad—List of the Killed and Injured.

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y., Sept. 30.—The accident on the New York Central railroad, though not so fatal as at first reported, was a terrible one. Four persons were killed and a dozen or more injured. The train to which the accident occurred was the St. Louis and Chicago express, bound west, which, owing to the heavy travel, was run in two sections. The first section left Fonda at 11:20, ten minutes late. The sections generally run ten minutes apart, which latter order, from best information obtained, seems to have been disregarded.

When the first section, Charles Averill, conductor, reached a point opposite the Brandywine rift in the Mohawk river, Engineer William Weeks, of Albany, of the first section, noticed a giving out of the steam chest of his engine. He immediately stopped, and, as several passengers state the hind brakeman of the first section ran back like a shot. As near as President Ledyard, of the Michigan Central, can judge, it was not over five or six minutes before the crash came.

Horth, the engineer of the second section, says he made every effort to stop by applying the air-brakes, but said they did not seem to work, and nothing was left for him to do but brace himself for the crash. He was pitched out of the window of his cab and landed in such a manner as to seriously break both his legs and otherwise injure him. His fireman, John Slater, went up about twenty feet in the air and landed on top of the Boston and Albany railroad's baggage car in the rear, which struck with such tremendous force that it was more than half way telescoped with the rear part of the engine.

Baggageman E. Wilcox, of Syracuse, was thrown into one end of the car, and quite seriously hurt about the head. He was the first to come to the rescue of the unfortunate fireman on top of the car, and the latter, though badly shocked, was not very seriously injured.

The first section was made up of a baggage, mail, express and through passenger car, besides a Wagner sleeper, the New Mexico, the private car Kankakee, of President Ingalls, of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railroad, and the private car of President H. B. Ledyard, of the Michigan Central railroad. The latter car was on the rear, and was made of oak underwork and pine siding, and is said to be the strongest and most perfect car ever constructed.

The fact that this car is far less damaged than the locomotive, and only the rear trucks are lifted from the track, argues well for the solidity of the car. In the car were President Ledyard, also Ashley Pond, general manager, and Henry Russell, of the Michigan Central railroad, also the latter's daughter and a Mrs. Williams, of Detroit, a guest of Mr. Pond's. In President Ingalls' car, the Kankakee, was his family, also N. R. Johnson, his private secretary, of Cincinnati, and Charles Franklin, a porter, who was formerly with the Pullman company. The latter was instantly killed, all of the others escaping serious injury.

The Kankakee, being next to the Big Michigan Central car, was shoved with great force through the Wagner sleeper ahead, which was packed with people. The two cars telescoped, caused a terrible crash, knocked out the lights and splintered both cars. The persons in the upper births escaped with slight injuries, several crawling out of holes in the top of the cars.

Following is the list of the killed: William H. Manning, of Marquette, Mich.; Charles Franklin and Alphonse —, colored porters.

The injured are the following: Mrs. William H. Manning, of Marquette, Mich.; William McElroy, of McElroy, Lewis & Fowler, of New York; Miss Tate, of Fredonia, N. Y.; Mrs. M. E. Ingalls, wife of President Ingalls, slightly, and William Horth, engineer of the second section.

The condition of Mrs. William H. Manning is much improved. Miss Tate, of Fredonia, who is also at the Hotel Wagner, is still in a dangerous condition. She suffered much from hemorrhage and from the injuries to her jaw and back.

William H. McElroy, of New York, is out of danger. His partner, R. A. Fowler, and friend, H. L. Lewis, have returned to New York.

Farmers' Alliance Organized.

MONTICELLO, Ill., Sept. 30.—The farmers of Ivesdale, near here, have organized a large association called the Farmers' Alliance. There are eighty-five members and they will erect a large warehouse. T. J. Cannon, J. B. Edgar, A. Know and others are the managers and the incorporators. The alliance takes the place of the grange that was so popular a few years ago among the farmers. These alliances are being formed all through the state of Illinois for mutual protection and to fight monopolies.

Governor Martin's Illness Serious.

ATCHISON, Kas., Sept. 30.—Governor Martin's illness is more serious than was at first supposed. For nine weeks he has been suffering from a peculiar malady, which his physicians have been unable to diagnose, and now typhoid fever has set in, and grave fears are entertained for his recovery.

The championship race in the American Base Ball association is about decided and Brooklyns will be the penant holders. "O ye of little faith,
Ye believe in God,
Believe ye also His ministers."

DAYTON, OHIO.

I have been subject to indigestion for a long time. BOWANEE was recommended to me. I have now used it for two months. It has brought me great relief, and has entirely freed me from my trouble. I hope your excellent remedy will soon find its way into the hands of many sufferers of this distressing disease, and I feel confident it will bring them the desired relief.
C. MUELLER,
Pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church.

DAYTON, OHIO.

For many months I was afflicted with stomach trouble, until I thought myself threatened with chronic diarrhea. The medicines I took did me little good. Accidentally, I saw a pamphlet announcing the virtues of BOWANEE. I took but one bottle, and since that time have had no reason to appeal to other remedies. EDWARD MASON,
Minister of Brethren Church.

THE QUEBEC VICTIMS.

Verdict of the Coroner's Jury Blame the City Authorities for the Disaster.

QUEBEC, Sept. 30.—The inquest on the death of the victims of the recent landslide was closed Saturday afternoon. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that the deaths were the result of gross and culpable negligence on the part of the Federal officers of the Dominion in not taking necessary precautions by building the buttresses recommended to the authorities by the city engineer of Quebec in 1880; that the death of Joseph Kemp was due to gross negligence of the municipal authorities of Quebec in not procuring and furnishing requisite implements to extricate him.

The jury further says that more lives would have been saved had such implements been procured, adding that too much time was lost in extricating the dead. Erastus Wiman's offer to subscribe to the relief fund was temporarily declined, as $1,900 is still at the relief committee's disposition.

Farmers Boycotting Dressed Meat.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 30.—About 800 prominent farmers of Lancaster county met yesterday afternoon at Bohanucona hall, in response to a call and organized to protect themselves against the packers who are shipping in dressed meat and selling to local dealers. A committee was appointed to formulate a plan of campaign and report at a meeting to be held next Saturday. Many speeches were made. The plan which seemed to be most popular was to boycott the local dealers and their patrons who buy this meat.

SENSATIONAL CANING

Miss Martha Wren, an Actress, Assaults a Theater Manager – How the Trouble Arose Between the Parties.

FINDLAY, O., Sept. 29.—A highly sensational affair occurred after the performance at Davis's opera house last night between Martha Wren, whose company had just finished a week's engagement, and J. C. Bushon and W. H. Cowles, managers of the Pavilion Theater company of this city, which culminated in Miss Wren administering a severe caning to Bushon and incidentally to Cowles, although her attack was intended for Bushon. The trouble grew out of the fact that the Wren company broke its engagement to play at the Pavilion theater and went to the Davis opera house instead. This created bad feeling between the parties and Miss Wren went before the footlights during the performance last night and made an address to the public, in which she charged Bushon with having sent her several personal letters during the week asking her to go out driving with him and pursuing her with other attentions of a compromising character and ended by giving him a vigorous roasting before the audience.

Bushon and Cowles then got out an attachment for the receipts of the box office and the baggage on a claim of having made advertising and other bills on the strength of the company playing at the Pavilion theater.

When the parties met after the performance Miss Wren proceeded to settle the bill by caning Bushon until Cowles receipted the bill and removed the attachment. Miss Wren did her work in the presence of her company and other spectators and was not molested until she expressed herself satified. Bushon was severely punished but Cowles escaped without injury. The Wren company having thus settled all claims went on to Marion this morning, where the play this week.

Believes in Witches

Samuel Armstrong, of Wapello, 82 years old and possessed of $250,000, is insane and at times so violent that it becomes necessary to confine him. His history has some queer features. For many years he was a prominent and successful contractor in Cincinnati, where he accumulated money and invested it in real estate in that vicinity. His largest holdings lay in Avondale, Greenville and Columbia, O., and they have become very valuable. About a score of years ago, as he was driving away from the place, a man who was trespassing hurled a heavy stone at him. The missile struck him in the back of the head, and from that time on he began to lose his mind.

While this infirmity was coming on, and before it had proceeded so far as to call for interference in his behalf, he was induced to transfer his Avondale estate to an unprincipled man, who, it is said, did not render him the slightest compensation for it. Litigation followed, and the sale was set aside.

Some time after this a Greenville man was appointed his guardian. The Avondale property was sold for $100,000. The rest of his property is still untouched. Armstrong was never married. His only heirs are his nephews and nieces, children of his sister, and nearly all of them live in Louisa county, not far from Wapello. Several years ago he was brought there and since then has made his home with his niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Paris. He is subject to several harassing delusions, principal among which is a firm belief in witches. He sees them come into his room through small openings, such as keyholes, and is greatly bothered by them in various ways. He keeps the crevices in his room closely stopped and wears straps around his ankles to keep the witches from crawling up the legs of his pants.—Chicago News.

The Remaining Territories.

After the admission of the two Dakotas, Washington and Montana, there will still remain five territories that will be candidates for admission. Four of these have at some time formulated constitutions that have been left to season. Two of these, Idaho and Wyoming, are now engaged in either revamping constitutions or making new ones. The third one, New Mexico, is about to engage in the same work. The question of the admission of these five territories will probably come before congress at the next session. The latest estimates of population made by officers of these several territories show the population to be as follows:

Arizona	80,000
Idaho	100,000
New Mexico	160,000
Utah	210,000
Wyoming	85,000

The figures here given, especially for New Mexico and Utah, will probably bear trimming down. No territory has a right to statehood by virtue of population or other qualifications. There is no statute conferring on a territory right of admission. There are, of course, numerous precedents. But the Federal government exercises the sovereign right of both admission and rejection.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Went Crazy Over the Calamity.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—Joseph C. Harvey, a well known mill owner of this city, has been sent to the Frankford insane asylum. Eight years ago the Randolph mill owned by him, was burned and fifteen persons, mostly young girls lost their lives, owing to the absence of fire escapes. Soon afterward Mr. Harvey, who brooded over the calamity, began to show signs of mental failing and has gradually grown worse. He owns several mills and is very wealthy.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Lord Granville is the finest of story tellers.

Ex-Secretary Bayard is accomplished in the art of self defense.

Sir John E. Millais spent his vacation this year chiefly in salmon fishing, in which he is an expert.

Sir Henry Parkes, the premier of New South Wales, intends, it is said, to introduce a bill conferring the suffrage upon women.

The Duke of Connaught, now in command of the English troops at Bombay, will visit the United States next spring on his way to England.

Premier Crispi, of Italy, sent his check for a thousand francs for the Columbus monument fund, which the Italians in New York city are raising.

Mr. Edwards, United States consul at Berlin, is a queer fellow. He is actually charged by the Germans with being too closely devoted to his duties.

Professor Edward G. Coy, the new principal of Phillips Exeter academy, who is a graduate of Yale college, is over six feet tall, of athletic build, and of fine personal appearance.

It is reported that the Italian government will expel Kossuth from Italy on a demand from Germany, because in an address to the Hungarians he protested against Premier Tirza's tirade against France.

Stuart Robson, the comedian, began his career as a page in congress. He was fortunate in serving at the time when such men as Webster, Clay and Calhoun were in congress, and he has many interesting reminiscences to tell of those distinguished men.

Dr. Schliemann, says an Athens correspondent of The Cleveland Leader, is infatuated with old Greece, and he wants nothing not Grecian about him. His servants have Greek names, and he never changes these though the men may be different.

Father Ryan, of Kalamazoo, is one of the most expert electricians in the United States. In one corner of his room he has a skull so arranged that it chatters its teeth when the priest-scientist slyly touches an electric button concealed about his desk.

Lord Mulgrave, oldest son of the Marquis of Normandy, is about to visit America. He is a man of strongly religious ideas and has serious thoughts of accepting a commission in the Salvation Army. He frequently conducts missions in the London slums.

Spurgeon is a great Bible scholar, and the Bible to him is his very existence. He never makes any preparation for a sermon. It is his habit to choose some text on Saturday evening to be used on the morrow. Thirty minutes, and no longer, he devotes to looking up references.

Mr. Neville, the great London baker, was offered and refused $1,000,000 for his business shortly before his death. In early life he failed and had his accounts settled by the bankruptcy court. Later, when his second venture had made him rich, he paid all his old creditors the balance of their claims in full, with interest.

Col. North, the "nitrate king," is building what will be one of the most splendid homes in England. One of its features will be a picture gallery a hundred feet long by fifty broad. At one end is a lofty vestibule to be filled with sculpture, and at the other a marble musicians' gallery, supported by columns of Mexican onyx. The walls are nearly forty feet high.

Cardinal Manning is a slight, graceful, delicate, gracious, dignified man. Like all intelligent Englishmen, he is deeply interested in the United States, which he regards as the future home of the greatest number of English speaking people. His home is a plain [illegible] house, the chief attraction of which is a magnificent library. He is the most abstemious of men, dining on a potato and an egg.

The late privy councilor, Ludwig von Moltke, a younger brother of the famous Prussian strategist, was a man of simple and unobtrusive habits, exceedingly kind hearted, and a passionate lover of music. His days were passed in relieving the poor and scraping on his violin. He was at one time a distinguished officer in the Danish service, but resigned his commission after the Schleswig-Holstein war.

WHAT A WOMAN CAN DO.

She can say "no" in such a low voice that it means "yes."

She can do more in a minute than a man can do in an hour, and do it better.

Six of them can talk at once and get along first rate, and no two men can do that.

She can sharpen a lead pencil if you give her plenty of time and plenty of pencils.

She can throw a stone with a curve that would be a fortune to a baseball pitcher.

She can safely stick fifty pins in her dress while he is getting one under his thumb nail.

She can go to church and afterward tell you what every woman in the congregation had on.

She can dance all night in a pair of shoes two sizes too small for her and enjoy every minute of the time.

She can come to a conclusion without the slightest trouble of reasoning on it, and no sane man can do that.

She can appreciate a kiss from her husband seventy-five years after the marriage ceremony is performed.

She can walk half the night with a colicky baby in her arms without once expressing the desire of murdering the infant.

She is cool as a cucumber in half a dozen tight dresses and skirts, while a man will sweat and fume and growl in one loose shirt.

She can talk as sweet as peaches and cream to the woman she hates, while two men would be punching each other's heads before they had exchanged ten words.

She can drive a man crazy for twenty-four hours, and then bring him to paradise in two seconds by simply tickling him under the chin, and there does not live that mortal son of Adam's misery who can do it.

ROYAL FLUSHES

The queen of Greece is fond of American literature. She adores the works of Hawthorne.

The czar, knowing the poverty of his father-in-law, pays all the expenses of the family gathering at Fredensborg.

The king and queen of Greece have seven children, the youngest a year old. The Princess Alexandra is a very pretty girl of 19. All the children speak French, English, Greek and Russian.

The German emperor has been "graciously pleased" to present Lord Salisbury with his imperial portrait. The gift is expressly designed "as a proof of his majesty's respect and admiration."

The king of the Hellenes is fond of giving dinner parties, but the guests who like an after-dinner nap sometimes complain that he will stand up and speak for an hour, during which etiquette compels them to keep on their feet.

A Trophy of the Bloody Angle.

One of the happiest men who returned from the Gettysburg memorial encampment is C. W. Bishing, of Harvey's Lake, this county. He was a private in Capt. Rice's company, Fifty-third Pennsylvania volunteers. Bishing was shot twice at Gettysburg, his wounds being ugly ones, a bullet shattering an arm and another entering near his right thigh. This occurred near the bloody angle and not far from the spot on which the regimental monument stands. As soon as he received the wounds he set to work to bury his musket. He fell near a big rock, and, though suffering great pain and bleeding profusely, he managed to scoop out enough dirt at the base of the bowlder to slip his musket into the excavation. Afterward he carefully covered it and wondered whether he would ever see it again.

Bishing accompanied the surviving members of his old regiment, the Fifty-third Pennsylvania volunteers, to Gettysburg on the occasion of the dedication of their monument. While there Bishing, accompanied by several old comrades, started out to look for the musket he had buried twenty-six years before. The bloody angle was easily found, and he soon distinguished the huge bowlder at whose base he had fallen and where he had hidden the gun. It took but a few moments to dig the earth up, when, to his joy, he struck the old musket and quickly resurrected it. It had the appearance of Rip Van Winkle's fowling piece. The stock had fallen apart, but was still in a good state of preservation. The barrel was bound about with a thick coat of rust, and the lock and other portions were in the same condition. But Bishing lifted the old musket tenderly, and, as the recollections of the past filled his mind, he kissed it with the enthusiasm of a father who has found a long lost child. Bishing brought the musket to Wilkesbarre this afternoon. He says he is poor, but no money will buy the musket.—Wilkesbarre (Pa.) Cor. New York Sun.

A Queer Sect of Turks.

Among the last batch of Syrians arriving at Castle Garden were three Druses. Two were farmers and the third was a shoemaker. They went from Castle Garden to Baltimore.

These three men are the only Druses who have ever come to this country. An isolated and peculiar race, the Druses have lived for generations near Mount Lebanon. Their total number is about 40,000. Hakem, the third Fatimite caliph, is claimed by them as their founder. They honor him as a divine being, and faithfully observe the curious religious rites which he established.

They are divided into two classes—the elect and the ignorant. The elect are the high priests, and the ignorant are those who are too young and inexperienced to be initiated into the mysteries of their religion. The high priests guard the mysteries of their faith zealously, and tolerate neither Hebrews nor Christians. The ignorant are far less conservative, and frequently mingle socially with believers in their creeds.

The elect Druses believe that Jesus Christ was merely an ordinary prophet, and that Hakem was really God, manifested in the flesh. They are confident, too, that the number of orthodox Druses can never decrease or increase.

The three Druses in this country are fine looking men, and are evidently possessed of unusual intelligence.—New York Herald.

Where's the Aurora?

The aurora borealis is a phenomenon that for years has been conspicuous by its absence from these skies. Time was, and that not so long ago, when the northern heavens presented a spectacle of weird, bewildering beauty. Why this dearth of electrical display? The earth and the heavens and the sun and the air are the same, to all appearances. Yet the boreal horizon is innocent of its shifting canopy of northern lights. Nor has there been any reason given by scientific men for this disappearance. Big spots on the sun come and go. Their appearance has been in former years found to be coeval with the aurora, but the rule has not held good for a decade. Have the thousands of dynamos that have come into existence in that time ground out such a lot of electrical energy that there is not enough left in the atmosphere to fit out a single display in the northern heavens?—Pittsburg Bulletin.

Love and Law.

When two fellows are in love with the same girl, and one of them happens to be a postmaster, what a big advantage the latter has over his rival! A Maine postmaster recently found himself in this situation and made the best of his opportunity—or the worst, just as you may think. The girl sent her new lover papers through the postoffice. The seller of stamps thought all was not right, and upon investigation discovered that within the paper was a letter written to his fortunate rival. The postmaster reported the case and the girl was fined $10. The fine was subsequently remitted. And now the query is, doesn't the postmaster wish he hadn't done it?—Lewiston Journal.

A Western Inventor.

Edgar F. Lincoln, of Topeka, Kan., has taken out more patents during the last two years than any man in the country. His inventions cover all fields, and he has patented almost everything, from an improved electric light to a celluloid toothpick. Like a great many inventors he finds it difficult to make money out of his cleverness. Other men reap the profit of his brain effort. His latest design is a toboggan brake. It enables a toboggan to stop in the middle of the steepest incline instantly if any obstruction suddenly appears on the chute.—New York Telegram.

The son and successor of the dead Prince of Monaco is reported to be opposed to gambling, and the inference is that he will close the world (in-)famous gambling establishment in the principality, with its train of ruined lives and fortunes.

Editor (facetiously)—Poet's corner? Certainly. We're all poet scorners in this office. The janitor, perhaps, may find some use——

Caller (stiffening up)—The poem, sir, is descriptive of my patent hedge trimmer, and I was going to ask you if a dollar a line would be sufficient compensation for publishing it as an advertisement. I don't mind your allusion to the janitor, but that did-fiedy-dad banged chestnut about the poet scorner makes me tired. Don't get between me and the door, sir, if you please. I don't want any explanations or apologies. You shouldn't have this poem now if you got down on your knees for it. Good morning, sir, and be hanged to you!—Chicago Tribune.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

A Few Sharp Remarks from an Honored Contemporary.

Don't Blame Him.—Last Tuesday night the city treasurer of this town jumped out with all the public moneys he could lay hands on. The aggregate sum was only $65, but no one should blame him for skipping out with that small sum. It was all he could get, and he had become so disgusted at having to associate with the members of the common council that he would probably have gone with $25.

Fun Ahead.—Alderman O'Grady didn't take our remarks of last week in the right spirit. We called him a thief, liar and drunkard, and instead of admitting the charges like a gentleman he indulges in threats of personal violence. Come on, Mr. O'Grady! We'll try and make it lively for you.

And, by the way, while on this subject, we feel to observe that of all the corrupt, dishonest knavish, drunken public bodies ever convened in a room together our town council caps the climax. Next week we shall begin a war of extermination on these vipers, and if the fur don't fly it won't be our fault.

It Can't Be Done Now.—For a year or more after we struck this town we could be kicked and cuffed with perfect impunity, even by a low down Indian. We were knocked down, booted up and down the street, and had our nose pulled out of shape two or three times per week, and we never thought of resisting. We were a tenderfoot of the tenderfootedest sort, and it was a question whether we should pull through or not.

Let some one attempt to tweak our nose today! The offer of a hundred dollars in cash wouldn't tempt a man in town to try it on. We are no longer a tenderfoot. The man who sets out to "lift" us now has got to beat chain lightning. Every chap who has piled into us for the last ten months has had to be carried off on a shutter, and two of them, as the town records show, sleep peacefully among the daisies.

It Melted Us.—It is well known all over town we have held a mortgage for the last three months on the entire outfit of our contemporary. It covers everything but his own worthless carcass, and can be foreclosed any minute. This being the case, we are often asked why we don't take possession when that blotch on journalism refers to us in such endearing terms as "jackass, "liar," "hypocrite," and so forth.

We did go over one day last week calculating to turn him out on the sand hills, but he fell to weeping and melted us. While it seems hard for a man to be abused by his own property, we haven't the heart to kick away the barrel. And, besides, he runs such an abject apology for a weekly newspaper that The Kicker receives hosts of compliments by comparison. We are not going to be mean with him—not unless he quits abusing us and tries to publish a good paper.

A New Department.—As will be noticed by all our subscribers we add a new department to The Kicker this week—that of forecasting the weather. We have arranged a signal office on the roof of our own building and shall take observations hourly. We have also purchased a map of the United States and have arranged a programme by which we expect nine-tenths of our predictions to be verified. This has been a long felt want in this locality and the enterprise of The Kicker will no doubt be duly appreciated.

We shall start out at a slow pace and do no rushing until the harness fits well. Our first prediction—"Clearer; warmer; cloudy; cool; may rain and may not"—is a sort of a feeler, and we do not advise any of our readers to give up a fishing excursion or a Sunday school picnic on account of it. We hope in time to get used to the hang of the thing, and after we have we guarantee to beat the government out of sight or wear one shirt all winter.—Detroit Free Press.

Nothing More Obvious.

Attorney (chagrined)—I confess, your honor, this juror seems to meet all the legal requirements, and as our peremptory challenges are now exhausted we shall be reluctantly compelled to accept——

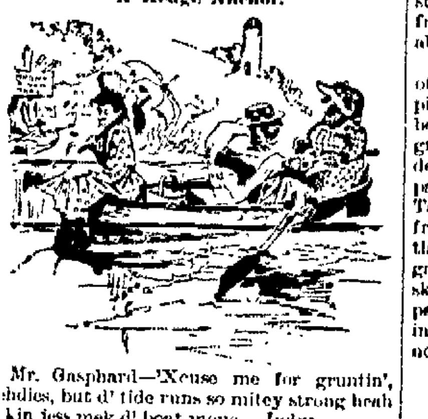
[Defendant leans over and whispers something in attorney's ear.]

Attorney (to juror)—One moment, sir. Have you not, within the last six months, paid off $2,000 of old debts, dollar for dollar, that were outlawed years ago and that you were not legally bound to pay?

Juror—I have.

Attorney (triumphantly)—I challenge him for cause, your honor. He is insane.—Chicago Tribune.

A Kedge Anchor.



Mr. Gasphard—'Xcuse me for gruntin', lehdies, but d' tide runs so mitey strong heah I kin jess mek d' boat move.—Judge.

A Neat Translation.

The late Henry S. Leigh met an acquaintance who had recently lost his teeth, and whose utterances, in consequence, were almost unintelligible. "It was Greek to me," remarked Odell, as the man left. "Greek?" replied Leigh; "gum arabic, I should call it."—Pittsburg Bulletin.

Mutual Interrogatories.

"William," said she, severely, "how many more times are you going to ask me to marry you?"

"Clara," said he, with equal sternness, "how much longer are you going to persist in refusing me?"—Merchant Traveler.

Drew the Line.

"Yes," said the sheriff, "I can do almost anything without compunction, but as for hanging—well, I draw the line at that." And he was surprised when some one said that they didn't see how he could do any other way.—Lawrence American.

Prudent.

Mrs. Slimdiet (the landlady)—Mr. Dashaway, let me help you to a little more chicken.

Dashaway—Thank you, madame, but my doctor has ordered me not to overwork myself.—New York Sun.

That Was What It Was For.

"How do you like your new saddle horse, Miss Mabel?"

"Why, I'm fairly carried away with it, Mr. Dolley."—Munsey's Weekly.

Winged Wishes.

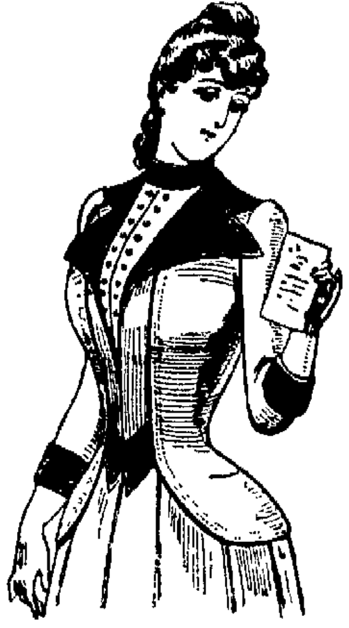
She—I would I were a bird.
He—I wish cats flew.—Fliegende Blaetter.

WHAT SHALL WE WEAR?

APPROVED STYLES IN DRESS FOR THE AUTUMN SEASON.

Novelties in Jackets for Street and for House Wear—Three Imported Models Illustrated and Described—Princesse Costumes for Fall and Winter.

There appears a decided reaction in favor of jackets which, in many instances, are more ornate than formerly, and therefore worn on dressy occasions as well as the morning. There are jackets with waistcoats and jackets without waistcoats, jackets for the street and jackets for the house. English tailors are making many cloth jackets very plain, machine stitched and quite devoid of trimming. French tailors are turning out very natty affairs to be worn with elaborate waistcoats, in illustration of which see figure in cut No. 1.

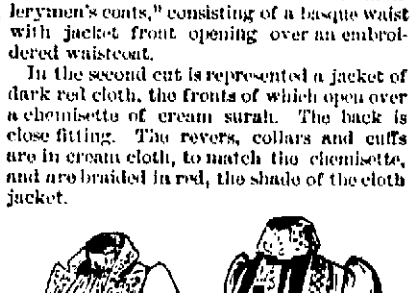


TAILOR MADE JACKET.

This charming model is in brown cloth, stitched with terra cotta silk to harmonize with the coat facing, collars and cuffs and waist tabs of velvet.

There are some very pretty military braided jackets in gray, hooked down the front and braided in black. Then there are "artillerymen's coats," consisting of a basque waist with jacket front opening over an embroidered waistcoat.

In the second cut is represented a jacket of dark red cloth, the fronts of which open over a chemisette of cream surah. The back is close fitting. The revers, collars and cuffs are in cream cloth, to match the chemisette, and are braided in red, the shade of the cloth jacket.



CLOTH JACKET—FRENCH TEA JACKET.

The remaining figure in cut 2 shows a French tea jacket of white brocaded gauze striped with open work. This jacket opens on a plastron in china crape, over which drops a cascade of lace, which meets at the waist a deep flounce of the same fabric. The bows and bands on the full sleeves are of corded ribbon.

Princesse Costumes.

Relative to the new princesse costumes Harper's Bazar says: Long closely fitting coats with princesse breadths closed to the foot of the skirt instead of flapping tail breadths form part of autumn and winter costumes. These are made of cloth, matelasse or velvet, and are worn over a skirt of contrasting material, such as silk, moire or velvet. The styles of the Directory are given to these great coats by vests, cravats and jaboted frills on the waist, but the large revers have been so generally used that lovers of novelty have abandoned them, preferring straight or indented sides to their bodice fronts, or else tongue like straps that are set about irregularly on the bodice.

For instance, a long coat of green velvet is of princesse breadths entire, the fronts lapping to the left at the waist line, falling open below to show the front breadth of a skirt of green bengaline, which is cut out in three deep scallops at the foot and edged with wide passementerie that ends in knotted fringe. Tapering bands of the passementerie without fringe are up the sides of the coat front, and there is a soft gathered plastron of the bengaline above the waist line. The foundation skirt of this and of similar dresses is of alpaca, with two very short steels placed low in the back to support the heavy coat but not to extend it.

A Distinctive Novelty.

The distinctive novelty this year is rather costly and very elaborate, viz., front breadths specially woven and intended to be used with plain material. These appear in an infinite variety. Some have broad and narrow brocaded stripes, the brocade in silk and of a contrasting color, while some have broad stripes of wool alternating with corded silk, and rich velvet brocade on silk and wool. Others, again, with a silk brocaded stripe on wool, have broken stripes of velvet. Whatever their nature, these breadths give a richness and finish which remove the woolen gowns made up with them from the ordinary hard wearing costumes we have hitherto considered them to be. The patterns in all these brocades are sometimes floral, sometimes conventional and mostly take the form of lappeting, by which I mean that the edges are waved and alike at both sides of the pattern. The Jacquard loom has played an all important part in the production of these several fabrics. In all cases plain stuffs are used with the more elaborate weaving.

Fashion Briefs.

Silk brocades in which no velvet appears lack nothing in richness.

The plain cloths for ladies' wear have been improved upon but not greatly changed.

Heliotrope and Java are two fashionable colors.

Both the plain and fancy cloths are to be had in a large range of colors.

Checks are coming in again in many varieties.

Camel's hair cloths, with decided stripes and upstanding hairs, make pretty gowns and have small checks often combined with the stripes.

Bordered cloths are made in every variety, mostly with the silk brocade, but also with the check and knickerbocker effects.

Gold braids continue to be worn

PHYSIOLOGY AND HYGIENE.

Bleaching the Hair—A Curious Statement About Dark Hair and Mental Disorder.

Recent analyses have shown that the preparations for bleaching the hair to "the delicate golden shade so much admired by the court circles of Europe and the best society of the United States," to quote from a label on one of the bottles, all depend for their action upon the decolorizing and corrosive influence of nascent oxygen or nascent chlorine.

Medical Classics states that the bases used in the various nostrums for this purpose are peroxide of hydrogen, aqua regia and bronzers' acid. Peroxide of hydrogen is the mildest and most innocuous of the trio named. It is a colorless liquid which destroys the natural color of the hair, and which, if used long enough, turns it an unnatural grayish white. It is rather expensive, and is therefore used much less than the two other acids. It produces sores upon the scalp, and gives rise to skin complaints that resemble tetter, saltrheum and scald head. The two acids are equally vile. They attack and eat the hair and skin alike. The former they partly bleach and partly burn to a handsome gold color; the latter they stain to about the same hue as does a light application of iodine. Besides the dermatologic troubles named, they cause maladies hardly distinguishable from eczema and erythema.

One curious disease that they cause is an inflammation of the cells of the hair follicles. The cellular walls break down and lymph, and often blood is extravasated in appreciable quantities. All three bases produce falling out of the hair and premature baldness.

A fact both interesting and agreeable to people who are by nature light haired or red headed, is also stated in the journal already mentioned. It is, that out of 165 patients in a certain asylum, only one has red hair, and only four have light hair and complexion. It used to be supposed that a pale complexion specially marked a tendency to mental excitement and brain disorder. Statistics, however, show this to be an error. What is true of men is also true of women. They are, with one exception in fifty, dark haired and dark hued. It is sometimes the case that the hair turns white with insanity. Probably the error arose from this fact. The reason why dark people are more inclined to mental disorder has not been explained.

The Noon Lunch.

Perhaps the doctor is right who says that a great portion of the sickness in this country is caused by the unpleasant habit of eating too rapidly. It is interesting to watch the average citizen when he goes into a restaurant for his dinner. He doesn't seem to regard the meal with any degree of fondness, but acts as though the eating of it is one of those disagreeable duties which confront a man at every step on the highway of life. He attacks the meal savagely, and you can hear his knife and fork rattling a furlong away. He shovels the food into his mouth as a hired man shovels corn into a shelling machine, and swallows it without chewing it. He pours down a lot of ice water when the meal is consumed, with a frantic endeavor to make it as indigestible as possible, and when the last sad rites are over he rushes to the cashier's desk and settles with an expression of relief mantling his radiant countenance like a rainbow after a storm. The stern physician says that people should eat very slowly, and while away the time between bites by conversation about the weather, the crops or any other cheerful subject. In this way the days of their years of their pilgrimage may be many.

Morphine Eating.

A German authority affirms that the children of women addicted to the morphine habit are practically morphine eaters from birth. During the first few days of life, unless morphine is given them, they are very apt to suffer collapse, and this condition may end in death, the child being too weak to withstand the violent symptoms, which are similar to those which follow the sudden withdrawal of the drug in adult opium eaters.

SOCIAL ETIQUETTE.

The Gentle Manners and Fine Breeding That Make the Model Guest.

"Not one person in ten is gifted with that amount of tact which renders one who is to some extent a stranger a pleasant addition to the private life of a family where there are many members of diverse dispositions and habits, likings and dislikings." So affirms Harper's Bazar, and then gives some friendly warnings as to the behavior befitting one who desires to maintain to the close of a visit the cordiality of feeling that gave her a welcome at the beginning.

In the first place, the guest who wishes to remain a welcome guest should put curiosity entirely out of her head. She may have any amount of interest in the people about her, and give it all expression wherever their affairs are presented to her; but she is never to ask a question about these affairs or make them the object of her extended remark, either before the faces or behind the backs of the family, aware that the least approach to the inquisition will seem like prying, and will not only close the avenues of further knowledge in that direction, but will make the questioner obnoxious. In the same spirit, she will not, it need hardly be said, look at the addresses of letters, at the inscriptions in books or manifest much alertness in relation to parcels and telephones, will show no interest in telegrams not referred to her, and never give a glance at incoming bills; she will know, in fact, no more of the conduct of the household than it is very plainly and explicitly demonstrated that she is desired to know.

She will, moreover, perceive that the old saying concerning too much of a good thing may apply to her as well as to any one else. A little observation of the behavior of the family itself will very soon show her which ones it is the custom of the family to leave together, which ones like a taste of solitude, at what hours all like to congregate; and she will then betake herself, with book, or work, or letter writing, to her own room, or to some sheltering corner of house or grounds for comfortable intervals of time.

She will also be especially particular to seek her bed at a comparatively early hour, not waiting for every one else to be gone, and never, under any circumstances, allowing herself to be the last or among the last, recognizing that the hour before sleep is one often of great value to master and mistress, to sister and brother, or to mother and daughter for necessary and confidential talk.

Again, that guest is an unwise person who takes advantage of the privilege of guestship in order to occupy the most comfortable seat, to appropriate the window with the view, the warm corner of the fireside, the first and best of anything. If the hosts know their duty all this will be offered to her; but even she must see the folly of accepting too much.

On the other hand, the guest may rest comfortably assured that the more she is inclined to make less of herself with dignity, the more her hosts and all their circle will magnify her. It will be their part to see that she has the most luxurious chair, the choice morsel, the chief pleasure, the place and post of honor in everything.

—A fight in the alley back of the Kerr House, Sunday afternoon, attracted considerable attention, the participants being two men named Conklin and O'Connel. Conklin received bad usage in the melee which followed and O'Connel succeeded in making his escape before the police put in an appearance.

ROYALLY WELCOMED.

Mr. Frank Wells and Bride Met at the C., H. V. and T. Depot by the Patriarchs Militant and Tendered a Hearty Welcome.

[Delaware Gazette.]

Mr. Frank Wells, one of the popular attaches of Riddle, Graff & Company, has been making frequent visits to our neighboring little city of Marion for some time past, and while he has been able to throw many off the track regarding his motives there, still quite a number were onto the secret, and when his marriage on Wednesday evening to Miss Metta Roberts, a charming and accomplished young lady of that place, was announced it was no surprise to them. The happy groom has a host of warm friends here in Delaware, and when it was found out that himself and bride would arrive in Delaware on the 10 o'clock train Wednesday evening, the Patriarchs Militant, of which order he is an honored member, determined to surprise him. Accordingly the members, shortly before the train time, assembled at the lodge room and from there marched to the C., H. V. and T. depot, when they were drawn up in line. When the train pulled in at the depot a committee stormed the car in which Mr. Wells and bride, wholly unaware of the fact that so generous a welcome awaited them, were seated, and escorted them to a carriage, after which the order marched to the cozy new home of the happy couple on Park avenue. To say that Mr. Wells was surprised would be to half express it, and when, after reaching his home, and order had in a measure been preserved, Chevalier E. R. Ryan, in a graceful and happy speech, presented him with a handsome upholstered chair, his surprise was complete.

The occasion for an impromptu affair was a complete success, as are all the efforts of this order out on social line, and Mr. Wells and bride will, we doubt not, long remember with sincere pleasure the hearty greeting accorded them by the Patriarchs Militant.

An Erring Lover.

H. K. Davis was arrested Feb. 14th, on a warrant sworn out by Julia A. Carr for bastardy. He was brought before 'Squire Payne, who bound him over to court, and he was placed in jail on the charge. A few days later he gave bonds for his appearance and was released. He immediately went to Wood county, where he now resides and is to be married in the near future.

Julia put in an appearance this morning with the statement that the child was born but is now dead, and that he seduced her under promise to marry her, and she now wishes to put an end to the Wood county marriage until she can complete a settlement with him.

We understand his trial will take place next week.

Their 50th Wedding Anniversary.

Saturday was the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. James Coffy. The estimable couple concluded to omit any public celebration of the anniversary, but some of their friends and relatives decided that the event should not pass without some notice.

Accordingly a couple of elegant rocking chairs were presented Mr. and Mrs. Coffy with compliments of the occasion. Added to these were a fine gold-headed cane for Mr. Coffy and a pair of fine gold spectacles for Mrs. Coffy.

The many friends of the aged couple extend congratulations.

MRS. J. C. JOHNSTON, Pres.

—The Prospect Monitor is a little late, but insists on telling the following snake story: We have heard different reports of a large snake in the vicinity of Biggerstaff's woods, north of town, but on last Tuesday while Mr. Thos. Grafton was measuring timber in the Hughes woods he came within a few feet of a large snake, which he says was not less than fifteen feet long and larger around than his leg above the knee. It was of a dark brown or black color and ran with its head about five feet above the ground. People have learned to doubt snake stories, but we believe that Mr. Grifton tells the truth in the matter.

—John Tilden, an aged colored resident, living on south West street, died at his home Sunday evening, of dropsy, aged 71 years. Mr. Tilden has been a resident of the city for many years and has always been known as an honest and upright citizen. His funeral will take place from the house, Tuesday, at 2 p.m.

—Another injunction case has gone to court. Jno. R. D. Morris has begun an injunction suit against Green Camp township, the county commissioners, auditor and treasurer to enjoin them from taking any further action on the Morris road improvement located in Green Camp township.

—The general conference of the Free Baptist church has confirmed the appointment of Rev. M. C. Miner, as minister to India, and the reverend gentleman has sent word here that he will depart for his new field of labor in October.

Robert P. Halliday, the defaulting cashier of the First National bank of Mt. Gilead, O., who has been in hiding for the past four weeks, has surrendered to the United States authorities at Columbus and is held in default of $25,000 bond.
